

Full Stack Web Developer

BOONE REYNOLDS

I am a full stack web developer with a passion for the outdoors and all things internet. I am a fresh graduate of General Assembly's Web Development Immersive where I learned HTML5/CSS3, JavaScript, jQuery, Ruby, Rails, MEN and MEAN stack among many other things. Due to the fast-paced nature of the course, I have honed my time management skills to a fine point.

Most recently, I worked at an outdoor recreation startup that provides unique camping experiences to groups with little to no previous exposure to the outdoors. Through this position I was able to build solid communication skills with clients by translating their desires into quality results with limited time and resources. Most importantly, I learned that death is in the details. It's never fun to be caught in the woods during a storm without proper equipment.

I am excited to combine the skills from my previous career with my newly-acquired technical skills to become a developer who can effectively communicate with clients and deliver their ideas in new and creative ways.
